This orientation meeting will include an overview of the classical method and an introduction to the school's philosophy, Latin program, and other core classes within the Grammar and Upper schools.

Classical Cottage School centers its middle through high school curriculum around a challenging core of Latin, logic, rhetoric, history, philosophy, and classical literature from Western civilization. We also offer courses in modern languages, U.S. government, and electives such as art and music.

Our teachers are highly experienced professionals and our students have been very successful on Advanced Placement and SAT subject tests and at Latin competitions at both state and national levels. Despite this, so long as families understand the need for diligence and focus, our curriculum remains quite accessible for students of average ability and will serve as a superior foundation of skills and knowledge for virtually any future endeavor. For more information, please visit our website at www.classicalcottageschool.org.

It is highly recommended that interested parents make every effort to attend this important meeting so they can understand the methods we use and how we differ from other programs. Those interested in finding out more about the school's philosophy are encouraged to read Dorothy Sayers' essay "The Lost Tools of Learning" at <http://www.gbt.org/text/sayers.html>.
