

Fearfully and Wonderfully Made

Hello Everyone,
It is that time of year again. Get your thinking caps on, roll up your sleeves, and get ready to learn.

This is the year I am taking all my material and making it into a book entitled Anatomy & Health with Grandma, illustrated by my sister. My students at CCS will even get credit for helping me edit and draw pictures for this book by having their names listed on page two.

I am working diligently on rearranging all my old lesson plans into the twelve major body systems.

My students' bodies will be traced on pieces of cardboard and coloring pictures of their organs and other body parts will be colored, cut-out, and placed on these bodies through-out the year.

On the first day of school, the Anatomy & Health with Grandma google doc will be shared with you so that you can see what your child will be learning week by week. (It is not quite ready for viewing.) Please feel free to edit it week by week; if you do, I will place your name on page 2. I will be cleaning up the format weekly all year long. By the end of the year, this book will be finished and ready to print. (I even have a publisher in mind.)

WHAT TO BRING: (All other materials will be provided.)

1. Colored Pencils
2. Regular Pencil
3. 1 fine tipped permanent marker
4. Eraser
5. Notebook for handouts

Other Notes;

If your child is six years old or younger you will need to pick him/her up.

Please be on time.

Blessings,
Mrs. Snyder
